For this record FS Blumm has written some of his most light-hearted tunes, accompanied by NY trumpeter Luca Fadda. Wonderful guitar and double bass lines are mixed with edited toy instruments and found objects. The new dimension of this album is the collaboration with Luca Fadda who places digitally processed trumpets on top of F.S. Blumm's material. These sometimes improvised elements add a new aspect to F.S. Blumm's music and create a live feeling in which the trumpet and toy sounds form an experimental but harmonic interaction.

There are two 15 minute pieces on this album: one is 'Ricke and Dina', the other is 'Giorgi and Lucy'. 'Giorgi and Lucy' was inspired by the last piece of a live set at the 'epistrophy' in New York on December 1st 2006 where Luca Fadda and F.S. Blumm met on stage. 'Ricke and Dina' is based on a performance done in front of a children-audience during the presentation of a Peruvian fair trade collection of children's wear at the belleville-store in Berlin on the afternoon of Oct. 1st 2005. Then F.S. Blumm did some overdubs in his 7 square meter storeroom (guitar, bass and tons of toys) and sent a CD-R to New York where in the spring of 2007 Luca Fadda recorded all the effect treated and clean trumpets on all tracks at Jason Candler's Studio.

F.S. Blumm has released several solo works on labels like Morr, Staubgold and Plop, plays in the duo Sack und Blumm, writes radio plays and released his first book of drawings on Ahornfelder last year.

AHORNFELDER

The label Ahornfelder releases audio and print material. The musical releases are instrumental compositions between post-rock, minimal acoustic pieces, jazz and fieldrecordings. It is a combination between sound and music, noises and harmonies, patterns and deconstruction, academic approaches and melodic song-writing. In parallel the label releases books with drawings, photographs and collages.

Still available are: FS BLUMM: Drawings (Book), Yuichiro Fujimoto: Mountain record (CD), Wechsel Garland: 17 Pictures (CD), Kyle Field: Put it in a nutshell (Book), Sinebag: Près de la lisière (CD), Daisuke Miyatani: Diario (CD) and more

Out in a short time are albums by: Greg Davis/Sébastien Roux, Taunus, Little Wings and more
